Privacy Statement

The information that is transmitted from the meter to the IHD unit is considered personal information and therefore subject to the National Privacy Principles (NPPs). LED SAVES and the installers undertaking the IHD activity must also abide by the relevant privacy legislation. As a result, we will have to confirm that a customer is the registered electricity account holder for that premises, or their authorised agent.

You should fully brief customers on data privacy issues relating the installation of an IHD unit. This should include information on how the device operates and stores information and for how long, as well as how to delete historical data.

You should handle customers' sensitive information with care, which includes but not limited to customers' name, phone number, address, electricity bills, photos of the meter and installation, and etc. You should only use customers' information for the purpose of the installation and should not to disclose it to any other third parties.

By signing below, you acknowledge you understood your duty of care and obligations under the National Privacy Principles (NPPs) and will abide the NPPs.
